

What people like and admire about me...

- strong values
- optimistic approach to solving problems
- good at communicating with all sorts of different people
- thoughtful and kind
- thinks about other people and what they want to achieve

What's important to me...

- enjoying the challenge of putting values into practice, with a focus on choice, control, rights and inclusion as important issues
- getting to understand the work of the organisation and develop its work for the future
- helping people to speak up and making sure everyone is included
- finding ways of involving people in planning, checking services are right and making decisions
- being accountable as a Board member to people using the services, their families and commissioners

How to support me well at work...

- be clear about how you want me to contribute
- nudge me if it looks like I am missing a deadline
- have a relaxed and friendly work environment
- don't ask me to do much with the computer – I am not very good with technical things
